AAU launches new smart services at "NAJAH" Exhibition

Al Ain University of Science and Technology is preparing to launch new smart services within its participation at "Najah Abu Dhabi" Exhibition, held under the patronage of HE Sheikh Nahyan Bin Mubarak Al Nahyan, Minister of State for Tolerance, at Abu Dhabi National Exhibition Center between 25-27 Oct 2017.

Services to be launched include the e-portal service (Edugate), which aims to facilitate getting accurate information to students, academicians and visitors of the portal.

These smart services are designed to provide convenience, time-saving and facilitate procedures, such as Online Registration and Mobile Application, where students can be updated with the important regulations, procedures, admission requirements, registration, fees and all what the student needs in their university life.

Launching these smart services comes within the framework of improving the AAU's services offered to students and facilitating procedures, as well as improving their services in line with wise leadership's attitudes towards the digital services.
