Al Ain University Participates in EBook Forum

Believing in the importance of electronic resources and their roles in facilitating and supporting learning process and scientific research, Al Ain University of Science and Technology represented by Mr. Abdoulaye Kaba Library Director, participated in a forum organized by the UAE University in cooperation with Elsevier.

The forum was an opportunity for both librarians and Elsevier to come together to discuss issues and best practices about e-books, including collection development strategies for e-books, the role of e-books in solving the challenges facing researchers, and ensuring the best return on investment (ROI) on electronic resources.

It is worth mentioning that the number of electronic books and journals in AAU libraries is continuously increasing and heavily used by students and faculty members in the learning process and scientific research.
