Al Ain University organizes the "Knowledge and Talent Market" to enhance the skills of school students.

The Student Affairs Deanship (Abu Dhabi campus) organized an initiative titled "Knowledge and Talent Market" for private school students in the secondary level, aiming to enhance the value of knowledge and talent among school students and provide an interactive environment that encourages learning and innovation.

The initiative included various theatrical performances presented by a group of school students, in the presence of Dr. Amer Qasim, Vice President of the University (Abu Dhabi campus), Dr. Nuha Hamada, Deputy Dean of Student Affairs, and several deputy deans. The Knowledge and Talent Market featured several pavilions showcasing unique innovations and projects by university students, such as the Pharmacy College pavilion, where school students learned about different types of medications, research, and medical information in an engaging manner. There was also an Engineering College pavilion that showcased the latest engineering innovations by university students, as well as a robotics pavilion, a 3D printing pavilion, a mind and sports games pavilion, and an art pavilion. Scientific and cultural competitions were organized for school students, with winners receiving financial vouchers that allowed them to explore the Knowledge and Talent Market and purchase items of their choice from the exhibits.

Dr. Nuha emphasized the importance of such initiatives that enhance the value of knowledge and talent within the student community in schools and universities.

Several private schools participated in the initiative, such as Dar Al-Oulom School, Emirates Private School, Elite School, Al Ikhlas School, Al Manara School, Ashbal Al-Quds Secondary School, Al Nahda National Schools for Boys, and Al Thebyaniah School. Additionally, a group of supporting entities contributed to the Knowledge and Talent Market, playing a significant role in its success. These included Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank (ADCB), Millennium Hospital, Meral Destinations, Medecina Group, Canadian Medical Center (CMC), Al Ostora Land for Training and Professional Development, and Tabrizi Dental Center.
